

PRESS RELEASE 14TH AUGUST, 2009

International photographer Lee Duguid will launch his long awaited exhibition on Thursday 27th August, 2009, showcasing breathtaking landscape photography from Australia and New Zealand. "This exhibition features some of my favourite photographs taken over the last 4 years covering everything from the snow covered mountains of Tasmania, to the sunny beaches of Sydney" Mr Duguid said.

Committed to capturing and sharing his innovative perspective, Lee demonstrates the picturesque and diverse nature of this corner of the globe.

Scottish-born but now living in Sydney's Northern Beaches, Lee says the exhibition has been a long held dream of his.

"I am ecstatic that I can finally share my work. I started taking photos while travelling through Asia and Australia, with a film SLR camera my father gave me. After receiving encouraging comments I started to experiment with composition, lighting and technique."

"Australia has always been home for me since I first travelled here in 2003. I love the unique landscapes and variety each state has, photographing Australia has certainly kept me busy."

The exhibition also coincides with the launch of his web site: www.leeduguid.com.au
